

COOKIE POLICY

INFORMATION ABOUT COOKIES

Under Act 34/2002 of 11 July on services for the information society and e-commerce, in connection with Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 27 April 2016 (the General Data Protection Regulation or GDPR) and Organic Act 3/2018 of 5 December on data protection and guarantee of digital rights, all websites that use non-essential cookies must secure express consent from users before allowing users to browse their pages.

WHAT ARE COOKIES?

Cookies and other similar technologies, like local shared objects, flash cookies and pixels, are tools that web servers use to store and recover information about website visitors and to keep websites running smoothly.

These files are used to enable the web server to remember certain data about the user, like the user's display preferences for the server's pages, the user's name and password and the kinds of products the user is most interested in.

COOKIES AFFECTED BY LEGISLATION AND EXEMPTED COOKIES

According to the EU directive, the kinds of cookies that require informed consent from the user are analytics cookies and advertising and affiliate cookies. Technical cookies and cookies that are needed to run the website or provide services expressly requested by the user are exempted from the requirement of informed consent.

COOKIE TYPES

COOKIES CLASSIFIED BY PURPOSE

- Technical and functional cookies: These cookies enable the user to browse a web page, platform or application and use the various options or services it provides.
- Analytics cookies: These cookies enable the person or company that runs the web page, platform or application to track and analyse the behaviour of the users of the websites that the web page, platform or application is linked to. The information that analytics cookies collect is used to measure the website, application or platform's activity and create user browsing profiles, so improvements can be made based on analysis of the data on how users use the service.
- Advertising cookies: These cookies help the publisher effectively manage any advertising space included in the web page, application or platform over which the requested service is provided, based on criteria such as edited content and the frequency with which advertisements are shown.
- Behavioural advertising cookies: These cookies gather information about the user's preferences and personal choices (retargeting), so the publisher can effectively manage any advertising space included in the web page, application or platform over which the requested service is provided.
- Social cookies: Social cookies are used by social network platforms in services that allow users to share contents with their friends and networks. Social media platforms have the ability to track users' on-line activity outside their own services. This may affect the contents and messages that users see in other services they visit.
- Affiliate cookies: Affiliate cookies make it possible to track visits from other sites with which the website has an affiliation agreement (affiliated companies).
- Secure cookies: Secure cookies store encrypted information, so the data they contain is not vulnerable to malicious third-party attacks.

COOKIES CLASSIFIED BY PUBLISHER

- First-party cookies: These cookies are sent to the user's terminal from a domain or hardware that the publisher of the website, application or platform manages and uses to provide the service requested by the user.
- Third-party cookies: These cookies are sent to the user's terminal from a domain or hardware that is not managed by the publisher of the website, application or platform, but by another organisation that processes the data it gathers through its cookies.

COOKIES CLASSIFIED BY LIFESPAN

- Session cookies: This is a kind of cookie designed to gather and store data while the user is using a web page.
- Persistent cookies: This is a kind of cookie in which data remain stored in the terminal and may be accessed and processed for a period of time defined by the third party responsible for the cookie. This may range from a few minutes to several years.
